A WORD FROM THE
MANAGING PARTNER
JACK NICHOLS

Every day of the week, usually before the sun rises, I review at least 25 independent sources of information on current topics and issues pertinent to the oil and gas business. The information is related to what's really happening in the arena. It isn't always about price or politics or a current day narrative on which way industry winds are blowing.

What it is, is the truth. It's a non-biased referendum on what's really influencing the decisions of deal-makers and investors in the industry. It's a reference point for the independent-minded, non-technical investor who's not interested in reading and ciphering through hundreds of sensational headlines which are actually designed to "churn" the market.

These daily, heavily-biased publications are consistent with the main reason I started my own oil and gas company — to afford the qualified, serious-minded individual with a desire to make money investing in oil and gas a fair and equitable opportunity to do just that.

The decisions are yours. The information belongs to you to apply as you wish, if at all.

Get in the habit of making our Facebook page and LinkedIn page your "stops" on a daily basis. It only takes a minute or two and you will love yourself for it. I look forward to “seeing” you there!
